TROPICAL FISH

HOMEOPATHY

ESSENTIALS

TROPICAL FISH in nature

Roberto Petrucci - Viktória Németh

The term "tropical fish" is not a taxonomic group, but rather is a general term for fish found in such environments

Tropical fish are generally those fish what found in aquatic tropical environments around the world.

Sub-groups of tropical fish:

Freshwater tropical fish

Tropical freshwater fish are the most popular group of fish because of the low price and ease of keeping in aquaria. Most of the species are easy to breed in captivity.

Saltwater tropical fish

Marine fish are from open water or from the coral reef

Coral reef tropical fish

Marine tropical fish, are those that live among or in close relation to coral reefs.

Salt water tropical fish have vivid colors, characteristic patterns and distinguished behaviour from freshwater tropical fish

SAFETY

- Coral reef fish have developed many ingenious specialisations adapted to survival on the reefs, like hiding or well camouflaged
- These fish stand out for being specialists in hiding to cope with the attacks of predators

Skills of tropical fish

- Tropical fish stand out as particularly colorful with striking behaviors and characters
- They have no eyelids and can see long distances
- Their smell is not so good, but they have enough developed sensory elements through which they can prevent their capture

Type of feeding

Herbivores

whose structure allows them to feed on algae and vegetables

Carnivores

which feed on other fish, have an excellent stomach

Limnivores

which in addition to eating vegetables also feed on living elements and wastes

Omnivores

who maintain a balanced diet, eat vegetables and living organisms

Reproduction

Tropical fish can be reproduced in different ways.

- They can be Ovoviviparous

- Fish which give birth to live young are nourished by an egg yolk and hatched from an egg at the precise time or

- give birth to live young which do not receive nourishment from the parent whilst in the womb. The ova are in the mother's body but are not connected to it. The ova of these fish develop by feeding on the yolk

- and can be Viviparous

Fish that give birth to more or less completely formed young ones, the eggs develop whilst receiving nutrition from the parent.

The embryo is attached to and nourished by the mother's body (the majority of sharks, stingrays, eagle rays, and giant rays)

Fertilization of all viviparous fish is internal

- Childish
- People would like to be with them, spend time with them, being in their company

ENERGY

- Restlessness
- Always want to do something
- Have a huge energy
- A constant inner need and to be occupied, also to do many things in the same time
- ADHD

(usually it is in the first phase)

BUBBLE WORLD

- Prefer to be alone
- They feel happy in their own created bubble world
- Do not let anyone to enter into their own world
- Feel lucky to have this safe own world
- Feel harmony within themselves when in the bubble world

FORSAKEN

- They feel that their beloved one are not loving them
- Feel themselves abandoned
- Friends, spouse, parents, syblings are not taking care of them enough
- (but also it is because they want to connect just do not know how and most of their time they are escaping into their own world where noone can enter!)

- Their mood is very changable.
- Switching from cheerfulness to angryness. When angry they are censorius and critical.
- Then the mood is changing toward depression and complete sadness, a total indifference to other people

MEMORY

- Forgetful
- Confusion in their mind
- Weak and difficult concentration
- Mistakes in writing and reading
- Learning difficulties

PHYSICAL

ASK FOR HELP

Roberto:

Ciao ! I need help from you !

I'm doing a consultation with a child with diagnosis of autism also if he is very cheerful and sometimes likes to embrace the other kids.

He is sensitive to loud noises

He likes music and dancing

He is very nice and well educated

I thought to tropical fish and especially amphiprion

Viktoria:

How is his walking? is he in balanced or he has tendency to fall down easily?

Roberto:
I check

Roberto:
I asked him to walk and it does not seem very stable but the parents say he has no problem.
He becomes easily tired.

Viktoria:

What about being clean and cleaning the surrounding environment, flat, room etc...

Roberto:

I ask

Roberto:

Nothing special; he does just if the parents are asking him

Viktoria:

Ok.

I think amphiprion can be a good remedy

I just wanted to do the differentiate between amphiprion and carassius

Roberto:

he is a good observer. if the other kids are doing something new he observes and the day after is able to do it

Viktoria:

It fits to amphiprion

Roberto:

I asked how is the relationship with water and the mother answered he is a little fish and he likes water

Viktoria:
How chilly he is?

Roberto:
He is a chilly boy

Roberto:
do I have to ask more ?

Viktoria:
perspiration ?

Roberto:
No special perspiration

Viktoria:

good, amphiprion has no perspiration also if they think they are sweating give him amphiprion and we will see

Roberto:

Ah really ????? Now I understand !!!

Viktoria:

What ??

Roberto:

Thank you, thank you ! Homeopathy is incredible if the homeopath is clever...

Now you are too curious... I will tell you later

Grazie !!!

Viktoria:

;-) Ok. I will wait... Give him amphiprion and we will see

He often tends to rub the palm of his hands on his trousers

HIPPOKAMPUS KUDA

- Water is everywhere: sensation head is full of water, sensation of waves in the head and rushing in the ears, every kind of dreams about water and fatal attraction towards the water (they cannot stay far away from water)
- Feeling of isolation with desire for solitude
- Alternating mood: swing from depression to happiness
- Gender parity: I want to look pretty and be an attracting woman but I also want to do everything a man can do
- Female disorders (amenorrhea, infertility, miscarriage) and hormonal complaints (high testosterone or low estrogen level)
- Curvature of the spine (scoliosis, lordosis, kyphosis)
- Floating sensation and dreams of floating
- Electric and wave like sensations all over the body
